Auto-verification at The Pathology Laboratory

We are pleased to offer Auto-verification at The Pathology Laboratory. Auto-verification improves TAT by allowing results to be automatically released when they fall within parameters defined by The Pathology Laboratory.

Auto-verification is the process by which patient results are generated from interfaced instruments and sent to the Laboratory Information System (LIS). There, they are compared to our laboratory defined acceptance parameters. If the results fall within the defined parameters, the results are automatically released to the ordering client without any additional laboratory staff intervention. Any results outside the accepted parameters will be held in the LIS for manual review and release by the medical laboratory staff.
